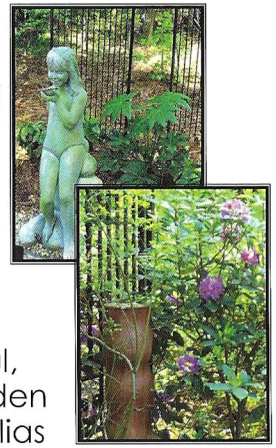
Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Barnes
2006 Hermitage Drive



The Barnes' garden welcomes you starting at the driveway with large urns filled with evergreens. Follow the garden path to a restful, stone lined shade garden filled with ferns, magnolias and hosta. Behind the house is an intimate seating area surrounding an outdoor fire place. Flower filled containers are everywhere in this garden. The Barnes' garden evolved from shrubs and small trees inherited from her mother's garden. Hidden along the garden paths is the art created by their daughter, Sherrod.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Andrews
2305 Canal Drive NW

The Andrews' garden is a reflection of their living style, at once relaxing and formal. The house is surrounded by large oaks and mature plantings. The entrance to the back will take you by surprise as an extensive area is designed into a relaxed patio room, creating an inviting area, with water feature. The backdrop for this cool, shady area is the stream that runs behind the garden. The large lawn showcases a formal rose garden surrounded by a black, wrought iron fence.

1

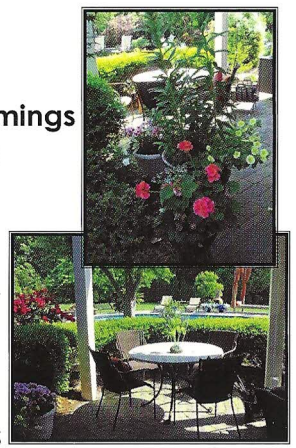
Mr. and Mrs. Tim Webb
8620 Tyson Farm Road, Stantonsburg

(exit 51 off 264 E, turn right onto Hwy 264 Alt, right onto Hwy 222 at stop light, first left onto Rogers Street which will become Tyson Farm Road)

Step into a country oasis! The home of the Webb's, owners of Raleigh Road Garden Center, is surrounded by beautiful gardens, whimsical accessories and barnyard animals. The Webb's purchased the home in 2010 and immediately began transforming the two acre landscape around the 1952 bungalow from overgrown shrubs to boxwood edged plantings. From the back sitting areas, you can see the family calves and goats, grazing in the pastures. This landscape is neatly manicured and provides the perfect backdrop for a leisurely stroll under the rose covered pergola or for entertaining by the outside fireplace. Leave the city behind and come enjoy the amenities that country living provides.

2

Dr. and Mrs. James Cummings
2900 Falling Maple Drive



This beautiful garden is tended by two dedicated gardeners. They designed, installed, planted, and maintain their walkways, pond, garden, sitting areas and pool. Vine covered fences attract butterflies and birds come to visit the fish in their pond. A plant filled deck, relaxing patio and oasis-like pool area complete this relaxing retreat. Tranquility best describes this garden.

3

Dr. and Mrs. Jim Taylor
3003 Wolf Trap Drive

This federal-style home on a corner lot in Belle Meade has a graceful curving drive to front door flanked with boxwoods and perennial shrubs. Two unusual Chinese firs are in the front garden. Multiple garden beds surround the home which includes family heirloom plants from eastern North Carolina. A number of native dogwoods planted by the family approximately thirty years ago survive. A generous use of family garden ornaments and mementos lend charm as one enjoys raised beds, a tree house and multiple fountains. The beautiful Japanese Maple covering the Koi pond is notable. Jim's hostas and Pat's climbing vines connect this pleasurable walk.

4

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hill
3601 Myrtle Woods Court

Enter an intimate southern living garden, enclosed on two sides by brick walls, through a wrought iron gate. Hear cascading water fall over rocks into a Koi pool. Cross a rock bridge into the shady garden of azalea, Japanese maple and hydrangea. Near the house is a large brick patio with a massive stone fireplace, gas grill and dining area. Beside the garage is a rose bed and vegetable and herb garden. This is truly a wonderful garden for entertaining.

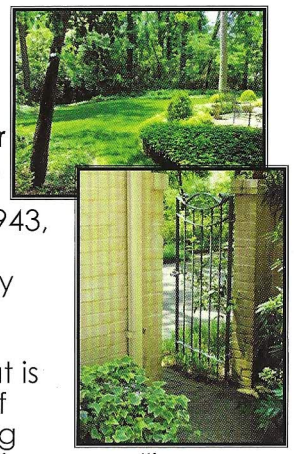
5

Ms. Carol Wikfors
509 Lafayette Drive

This 1950s home in the popular Cavalier Terrace neighborhood has it ALL! The owner, a local artist, has incorporated her love for art into the whimsical landscape. The backyard is perfect for entertaining around the swimming pool or relaxing on the screened porch. The pool is complimented by large annual container plantings and a lush fescue lawn. Fresh eggs are always available from the two chickens, Olivia and Henrietta that reside in the artistic chicken coop located at the side of the property. Color is abundant! This garden of delights is ideal in mixing practical and whimsical.

6

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Skinner
521 Mount Vernon Drive



This residence, built in 1943, is a simple southern landscape tucked away in the heart of Wilson. The front of the house is planted with a lawn that is bordered by an array of southern plants including boxwoods, azaleas, hollies, camellias, dogwoods and rhododendrons. A variety of groundcovers, ferns, hostas and Lenten roses blanket the beds of this shady yard beneath the large willow and laurel oaks. Near the house's side entry is a small, quaint walled-in courtyard with many of its plantings designed by Ben's mother, Sammie Skinner. A raised Silas Lucas brick terrace transitions the house to the rear lawn which is bordered by pachysandra and ivy beds and plantings in front of nature's own buffer from the outside world.
