

Media and Agent Guide for Disaster Recovery Experts

In subjects ranging from agriculture to water quality, from home repair to food safety, faculty members with N.C. State University's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences have expertise to help people prepare for and recover from disasters.

The specialists, most with the North Carolina Cooperative Extension Service, will share their knowledge with the media and with county Cooperative Extension agents.

Related fact sheets, press releases and other materials are available on Cooperative Extension's disaster information Web site at www.ces.ncsu.edu/disaster/.

Members of the Department of Communication Services can also help you get the information you need. Contact any of these news editors:
