Program

Consulting foresters and other professionals need to know how to assist landowners wishing to keep their lands in forestry and farming uses. The present use value program, a tax deferral option, is a tool that helps landowners keep their lands working. Many local governments in North Carolina have also established voluntary agricultural district programs, which can offer nuisance protection and other benefits to enrolled landowners. This teleconference will describe some resources for preserving and protecting forests and farmlands.

Topics

- North Carolina's Present Use Value Program
- Voluntary and Enhanced Voluntary Agricultural District Programs
- Ashe County Voluntary Farmland Preservation Program
