

Currituck County 4-H Clubs

4-H helps young people grow and develop by providing hands-on activities. To provide this experience, many communities have ongoing organized 4-H community clubs. These clubs are conducted by local, trained community leaders. Clubs are expected to develop a club calendar that outlines age appropriate educational and social activities that will occur during the year. Adults and 4-H'ers work together to plan the club calendar with educational programs. Clubs are also designed to allow members to have opportunities to develop leadership skills by electing officers. Not only are members learning simple parliamentary procedures and flag etiquette, but also enhancing their self esteem. Members of a community club have diverse interest and decide as a group what kind of programming and projects that they will participate in during the year.

Sand Spurs- This is a horse project club. Youth compete in horse art, photography, judging, showing, and general horse care. Meetings are held at the NC Cooperative Extension Office in Barco or the leader's home in Shawboro. Members are between ages 9 and 18.

Leader: Patricia Rippin

Seeking Success - is a horse project club that meets at the NC Cooperative Extension office in Barco or the leader's home in Brayview Landing. Members engage in a variety of activities including project books, presentations, horse judging, horse shows, and horse bowl. Members are between ages 8 and 18.

Leader: Kathy Pugh

The Tree Frogs - This 4-H club is also a community club. Members meet at the leader's home or at the Currituck County 4-H Rural Center in Powells Point. Members participate in a variety of activities and programs. Club members are between ages 5 and 14 years old.

Leader: Kathleen Crawford

The Currituck Sharp Shooters - This 4-H club is a special interest club. Their specific program area is shooting sports. Some of their activities include gun safety and target shooting. Their club meetings are held on the property located at the Academi Training Center. Club members are between the ages of 9 and 18.

Leader: Kathy Melton

Over.....

Fancy Feathers - This 4-H club is also a special interest club. Their specific program area is on chickens and other yard birds. Some of their activities include learning about how to raise a chicken and learning the parts of the chicken, and some of their members may participate in the local chicken show. They hold monthly meetings, which are held at the Currituck County Rural Center or at the leaders home located near the CCRC in Powells Point.

Leader: Shawn Davenport

Oh Sew What- Sewing Club- This is a special interest club. The members in this club will be learning how to sew from basic information, like how to sew on a button to learning about using a sewing machine. This club meets at the NC Cooperative Extension office in Barco.

Leader: Anne Thornton

Little Rascals- This club is a community club, they do not have a specific interest that they learn about. They participate in county programs and they encourage members to give back to their community with a wide range of hands to service projects. Members meet once a month in the Moyock area. Club members are between ages 5 and 9 years old.

Leader: Merredith Tefft

If you have a child that may be interested in joining one of the Currituck 4-H Clubs listed please contact the Currituck Extension office at 232-2262 or email

Stephanie_minton@ncsu.edu

4-H is open to youth ages 5-18

NC Cooperative Extension
Currituck County Center
120 Community Way
Barco, NC 27917

