FALL GARDENING CLASSES

Franklin County Center Classes 3:30PM - 4:30PM

Class Topics & Descriptions:

Extending the Harvest: The Vegetable Garden in Fall - September 10th

Late summer is the time to plan and plant for your garden's third productive season! Vegetable gardening for the year does not have to end with tomatoes and cucumbers - let's talk timing, to maximize your garden's yield with fall and even winter crops. We'll also discuss season extenders and other tips and techniques to keep your garden growing well past the first frost.

Beautiful & Sustainable Lawns: A Greener Yard - September 17th

In the Piedmont, rejuvenating lawns is best done in fall. Knowing and using good growing practices all year also saves you time and money, and reduces environmental impact. Establishing a healthy stand of grass now with good planning and sensible management will minimize issues with weeds and diseases in the future - you can have a beautiful healthy lawn and also reduce the impact and expense of lawn chemicals.

Fall Is For Gardening: What Should I Do Now? - September 24th

Spring and summer gardens are wonderful, but fall is a special season for gardening in the Piedmont! This is the perfect time for planting, transplanting, and starting fall-flowering containers. After the long hot summer, cooler temperatures make it easier on the plants and on the gardener too. Simple seasonal chores like winterizing tools are also on the list, to help you be prepared for future gardening seasons.
