

How Does Extension Help?

Agriculture

NC State Extension connects growers with research-based information and technology. We help keep North Carolina's $84 billion agriculture industry growing and sustainable.

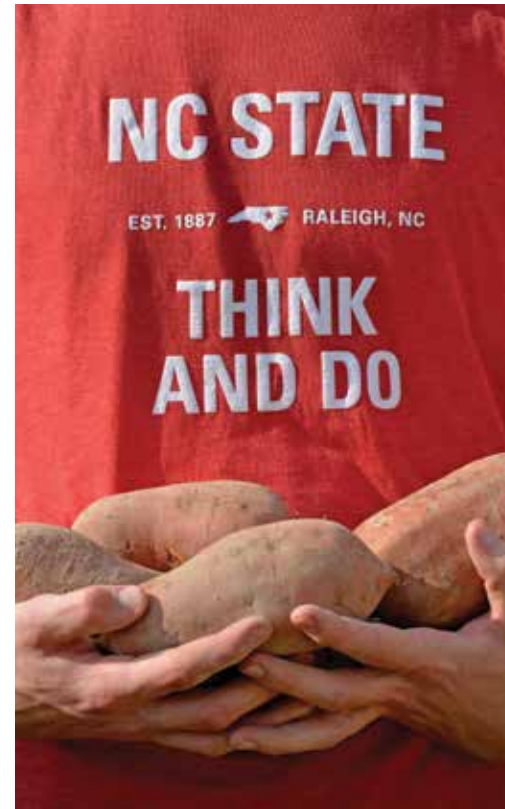

Food and Nutrition

Extension educational programs range from local foods and home gardening to food safety and food preservation. We help people make healthier decisions and live better lives.

4-H Youth Development

Extension's 4-H program is the largest youth development organization in North Carolina. We help over 230,000 young people grow into active, contributing citizens each year.

JOIN US TODAY ces.ncsu.edu/jobs

NC State Extension Personnel Office

PHONE 919.515.1377 | EMAIL extension_employment@ces.ncsu.edu

NC State University promotes equal opportunity and prohibits discrimination and harassment based upon one's age, color, disability, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex (including pregnancy), sexual orientation and veteran status.

Be An Agent of Change

Careers with NC State Extension

What separates NC State University from other schools? The same thing that connects it to every corner of North Carolina: NC State Extension. At NC State we conduct groundbreaking research – and our Extension agents deliver those solutions directly into the hands of North Carolinians.

Extension agents make sure vital research discoveries are transferred from the campus to the community. And with offices in all 100 counties, there's always an opportunity to join the team close to your own home.

NC STATE
EXTENSION

Providing Solutions, Empowering North Carolinians

Our mission: To create prosperity for all North Carolinians through research-based agricultural, food and 4-H youth development programs.

This is a job where you can make a difference. Extension agents monitor and respond to community needs with educational programs and resources. You'll need to be confident, professional, flexible, proactive and persistent.

- > Communication skills. Be comfortable meeting people and speaking in public
- > Writing skills. Know how to get your message out
- > Leadership potential. Show you can mobilize change
- > Community involvement. Participate in the life of your county
- > Subject matter expertise. Stay current on the latest research and events

Find out more about
NC State Extension
at ces.ncsu.edu

Ag is our state's biggest business and projected to exceed $100 billion by 2020. You can be a key part of that growth.

Benefit Today and Tomorrow

Along with a salary and state benefits, you get on-the-job training, access to innovative technology and tools, and the opportunity to earn an advanced degree. We encourage agents to continuously broaden their knowledge and strengthen their skills – and to have fun along the way!

We must double food production in just 35 years to feed 9 billion people. You can help transfer NC State's knowledge.

Be a Trusted Resource

Extension agents are a bridge between the state's preeminent research university and citizens across North Carolina. As part of the largest non-formal educational outreach organization in the UNC system, you're plugged into a dynamic, high-tech high-touch network unlike any other.

North Carolina is growing fast. Families are growing too. You can help chart the course for our state's next generation.

Make A Local Impact

Extension agents play many roles: Educator and mentor, advocate and community leader, counselor and friend. Most importantly, you'll build relationships, help identify emerging research questions, and become an invaluable resource by translating knowledge into local solutions and tools.